97TH YEAR

GETTYSBURG, PA., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1914

NO. 5

FARMER'S DAY SAT. OCT. 17

A PARADE OF FLOATS OF FARM PRODUCTS PROPOSED.

Work Has Begun, a Big List of Premiums and Exhibits for This Day.

At a meeting of the merchants and business men of this place in the Court House on Monday evening Oct. 17, was decided that the third annual Farmers' Day should be held on Saturday, October 17. A majority of those present at the meeting would have preferred an earlier date but it was deemed expedient to avoid all Fair dates. As many of the fairs are making Saturday a big day, the choice of a day became limited to a very few dates and October 17 proved the earliest date possible to be fixed.

About 80 business firms having been taking part in Farmers' Day, and all were notified of the meeting, but only fifteen attended, and these came prepared to name premiums and exhibits but this condition makes it necessary to have the remaining 65 business firms canvassed. The town has always been enthusiastic in favor of Farmers' Day and the sentiment in its favor is growing but the burden of preparation has been thrown on a few shoulders, too many being willing that the few unnecessary work, even to the extent of canvassing, instead of lending a hand by attending meetings and prepared to act. If the majority of our business men put into this effort as much time and work as the few these events could be put over as humming successes and a satisfaction and pleasure instead of being an anxiety to a few. Permit us to commend the glad helping hand to those in charge of Farmers' Day, 1914.

In organizing, Wm. Arch. McClean, chairman for the past two years, declined a re-election and M. K. Eckert was unanimously chosen to succeed him. In view of the work to be done which consumes much time in canvassing, etc., it was decided to pay a small salary to a secretary for the work that must be done and Chas. B. Kitzmiller was elected secretary, and compensation to be agreed upon with the chairman. Geo. E. Spangler was re-elected treasurer and Penrose Myers canvasser for cash subscriptions. Committees on entertainment, judges and all other preparations were authorized to be made by the chairman.

The prospects are for a better Farmers' Day than ever before. Many merchants have already indicated premiums and a more attractive list than ever has been assured. The matter of entertainment was discussed and while final decision was left with officers and committees, it is likely that instead of a show similar to last year that premiums will be offered for farmer floats in a parade. It was thought that many farmers would compete in such a parade, entering floats of wagons decorated with farm products. A parade of this kind would offer an opportunity to farmers to make most unique and picturesque exhibitions which would create great interest. A football game with Dickinson is scheduled for that day and it is probable a student parade can be arranged. Other features were suggested, and after consideration by the officers will be announced later.

So all aboard for Farmers' Day, 1914. Extend the helping hand.

Equal Suffrage Meeting.

On Tuesday afternoon an audience of over one hundred people gathered in the Court Room of the Court House at the first woman's suffrage county meeting. In the audience were representatives from New Oxford, Cashion, Biglerville, Bendersville and other points of the county. Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean opened the meeting by introducing Miss Mary Bakewell of Pittsburgh, considered by many the most brilliant suffrage leader in the Keystone State. For an hour Miss Bakewell held the close attention of her audience. Her address from beginning to end was a brilliant illumination of the subject. Among other things she said:

Woman is undoubtedly the pride of the day; but those conservatives who fear the coming woman, need to be reminded that the day, too, has changed and with new demands and responsibilities, the new woman is to meet them with courage and intelligence.

Too much have the women of a recent yesterday relied upon the higher to compelling duties of wifehood and motherhood to excuse them from public affairs. With such a view one is in sympathy; when the day was that of colonial times, and the busy house-mother herself made every bit of food or clothing needed to her family; when she was seamstress, candle-maker, carpet-maker, tailor and samstress, with the additional jobs of gardener, nurse, and servant-woman, thrown in; ah, then indeed, one could realize why the coming woman was the "home" since the home would have been in danger of collapse should the woman depart therefrom.

Times have changed. An industrial turn-over, amounting to a veritable revolution, has on the one hand, swept a certain group out of the home into factory and business life; and the other, to a position where, because of innumerable labor-saving inventions, they are possessed of more leisure than ever had women before.

Now, the suffragists desire to recapture these two groups; to give to the one, the only instrument which work- ingmen have found effective—the ballot—whereby the workingwoman may have some control over the conditions under which she works; and to the other, the wise employment of a political duty, which will be, let me say, not only to the benefit of her community, but of herself.

Too long have all women, whether in so-called "society," or in school, factory, or business office, rested content with their immediate interests; if their wage, their position, their club, or church, or set was satisfactory, what mattered all else beside?

For some years, the new woman has been evolving; she burst her chains when she demanded the right to have college education; she tried her wings when she entered professional life, as physician, lawyer, or merchant; she began to flutter when she learned in club meetings, the power of organization; now then, being ready, poised, trained, experienced, she is ready for flight. And, to leave this metaphor, never will an electorate come as well prepared, as this great body of women, American women, eager, having been tried and tested, go to the ballot as to a sacrament of government.

Men, accepting women as household companion, as cook and nurse, and teacher; as clerk and stenographer, as customer, and employer, could, without too great demand on his sympathies, accept her as voting companion.

Matters having to do largely with women and children as effected by legislation, or the lack of it, will remain in their present bad state, unless an electorate of women can bring strength and direct influence, to bear. Certain evil conditions are no longer to be borne—who shall enforce their cure? Certain specific training has been the woman's lot ages—let her put this training to service of our communities. If her's has been the moral force from generation to generation, then, for heaven's sake, let this force be exerted where it is most needed—in present-day politics; and then perhaps, we shall be nearer a new definition of a State, or Nation as "A spiritual principle, composed of the sacrifice the nation's people have made, or of that which they are willing to make." And none shall question woman's part in nation or sacrifice.

Miss Katherine Speer Reed of Philadelphia, next followed in an appeal for financial support of the cause and Miss Reed well sustained her reputation of winning dollars for the cause, for the collection taken amounted to over $17. Printing, literature and traveling expenses of speakers make it necessary to raise much money.

Miss Hannah Patterson, State Chairman of the Suffrage Association concluded the speaking and effected an organization. The previous organization was through appointment by the State Chairman and the latter asked the people of the county to select their officers now. The appointed officers were then elected for the ensuing year.

News Items from College.

Gettysburg College opened her 32nd academic year Wednesday, Sept. 16th, with very impressive exercises in Bruns Chapel at 11 a. m. The entire faculty was present in academic dress as Dean Bille and Chairman Wertz conducted the opening devotional exercises after which President Granville delivered the address of welcome to old and new students.

The largest entering class in the history of the institution (over one hundred) were there to greet the greetings as well as an unusually large number of students from other colleges seeking entrance to the upper classes. The total number of students in the college breaks all previous records. Stevens Hall, the Gettysburg Preparatory Department, also has a record entering class. Every room in all the dormitories have been taken and a considerable number are obliged to room in the town. And this in spite of the fact that by means of Cottage Hall, our new college dormitory, we are able to room fifty more students than was the case last year.

Several important changes, in and additions to the college teaching force are shown by the new faculty list. John Andrew Himes, Litt.D., Graeff Professor of English Literature and Political Science resigned last June after serving with great fidelity and distinction on the faculty for forty-three years, thereby breaking the longest previous record of faculty service of thirty-eight years which was held by Dr. Stoever. As his successor at the head of the Department of English the Board has selected Professor Henry Robinson Shipperd, Ph.D., from Harvard University. The new chair of Economics and Political Science was filled by the election of Professor Stewart M. Macdonald, Ph.D., from McGill University of Montreal, and the course in Commerce and Finance has been placed under his care. Another new instructor is Professor Stephen R. Wing, M.E., from Cornell University, who assumes the supervision of the Mechanical and Electrical Engineering Courses. Professor Schappelle, head of the Department of Romance Languages, has been detained in France on account of the war but will arrive in Gettysburg to take up his work before October 1st. Professor Nolltor, from Germany, who had been engaged to assist in the German Department has joined the German army and will not be able to take up his work here. As a substitute the college has been very fortunate in securing the services of Dr. George Kurtzke, exchange professor from Berlin University. Professor Kurtzke has for past year been lecturing on German Literature in the leading universities of America and is now unable to return home on account of the war, being a German reservist.

A great deal of new apparatus for the new engineering departments has been installed during the summer, bringing them up-to-the-minute in equipment. The Physics Department has also been enlarged by the addition of two new laboratory rooms and a modern dark room for the study of light.

From every point of view the scholastic year 1914-15 gives great promise of becoming the most notable year in the forward march towards a Greater Gettysburg.

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The 29th Annual Convention of the Adams County W. C. T. U. was held in the Friends' Meeting House, Flora Dale Saturday the 12th inst.

Delegates and visitors came in autos, carriages, on horse back and on foot, representing Abbottstown, Bendersville, Biglerville, York Springs, Gettysburg, Arentsville and the surrounding country, and making a full house.

Miss Florence Michener welcomed the convention and added a challenge to make this one the best ever held in Adams county.

Miss Rafensperger responded urging on the unions, the creation of Public opinion through every channel available, for national prohibition.

Reports of superintendents followed. Miss Lily McClean, Supply Work, emphasized the necessity of reporting our local work, and said we should appreciate the help rendered by the county papers to the temperance cause by refusing liquor and other objectionable advertisements. Miss Michener suggested that it would be a good thing to have one of the county papers using the United Press Association news, a press plate, of a column or more from the National W. C. T. U. the County W. C. T. U. to bear the expense.

It was commended by the convention but no action taken.

The election of officers, till next convention, resulted as follows, after receiving the resignation of Mrs. Twiden as corresponding secretary.

President, Miss Annie Sheely, Arentsville; Vice President, Mrs. Helen Keith, Gettysburg; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Bessie Rafensperger, Bendersville; Recording Secretary, Miss Bertha Heiges, Biglerville; Treasurer, Mrs. Mary E. Grove, Bendersville.

Executive Committee met at noon and appointed superintendents of various departments of work, whose names will appear later.

Miss Luella McAllister, President of the Y. P. B.'s and Mrs. Lorena Riggs, will represent Gettysburg at the State Convention, Oil City, Oct. 2-6. The President of the county will go from Arentsville and neighboring Unions.

Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean favored the convention with a talk on "Equal Suffrage." That being one of the departments of work in the W. C. T. U. that Adams county had not taken up. A motion was made to appoint a superintendent for that department. A vote taken on the question showed that a majority were in favor of so doing and a superintendent will be appointed later.

The medal contest was good. The prize was awarded to Miss Fiofo of Biglerville, by the judges, Mrs. Robt. Elden, Mrs. Will Tyson and Rev. Jos. Arnold.

In the County Exchange, as to the most important work done by local Unions, Mrs. Taylor, President of Gettysburg Union, said the placing of a bubbling fountain in the Square, where drinking cups had been consumed, and mothers' meetings held at five different points in town at the same time were notable. Other Unions reported gaining of members, and increased work in different departments.

The addition from the "Friends" of coffee and delicious fruit to the table provided by the delegates and visitors was much enjoyed and the fire in the stove added to the welfare and comfort of all.

Biglerville Show.

The Biglerville Poultry and Apple Show have secured Prof. S. M. Fagan of State College for judge of the apples and are offering most inviting premiums. For the best ten varieties on plates a first prize of $5.00 and second of $1.00. For single plate of each variety, and this county grows over 40 varieties, first prize of $1.00 and second of 50 cents. There will be an entry fee of 5 cents a plate. Last year this show had on exhibition 1253 birds and indications are for a much larger show this year. The catalogue will be out about Nov. 1, and show will be first four days of December.

Auto Accident.

A distressing auto accident occurred Thursday afternoon. Dorothy Bowers, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Bowers of North Stratton street was crossing over Baltimore street at Middle street when the new electric auto of John M. Warner came down Baltimore street. Mrs. Warner saw the little child and rang the bell. The child apparently did not hear the bell or see the auto. The car was slowed down. The cross rail in front of the car caught the child and the little girl was pushed along some feet and thrown into the gutter at S. A. Miller's store. The car passed over the left ankle of the child breaking the bones and she was wedged tightly in the gutter between curb and wheel of the car. The child has bruises on her body but they are such as to indicate that the car did not pass over her chest, the bruises being such as would indicate being thrown against a curb. The child died at the mouth but it is believed this was caused by hitting the tongue. The little girl was picked up by a student and carried to office of Dr. H. M. Hartman and from there to her home by her father, who was attracted to scene of the accident, not knowing his daughter was injured. Friday morning the little girl seems stronger, but has not been in a condition to have the fractured leg set.

T. C. Grove has sold his farm in Straban township to Orville S. Riley for $4800. It contains 144 acres.

Baseball Scores.

It is not expected that the series of ten games with Hanover can be completed. Two of the games being ties, only eight decisive games were played, Hanover taking five of them and Gettysburg three.

The game last Thursday was the second tie game played. Stair pitched a great game putting out fifteen. The Hanover paper in commenting on the game said "the best Hanover could do was to play a draw game and we had no license to get that," and but for a "bad heave in the fifth," Gettysburg would have had Hanover's goat by a 2 to 1 score. Hanover's team disbanded this week.

On Wednesday the Gettysburg team went up against the Tri-State Allentown team on Nixon Field with the result of a score of 2-1 in favor of the visitors.

The baseball season will end on Saturday, Sept. 12 with a Booster Day. The game in the afternoon will be with Mt. Holly. The management will not sell tickets at the gates but through the town and the proceeds will be divided among the town players who have played during the summer months without compensation.

THE INDICTMENT OF PENROSE

Palmer Presents Proof of Charges Made.

Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, having presented to the people of Pennsylvania an indictment of fifty charges against Penrose, proceeded last week with a presentation of the evidence in proof of the charges. He began with the charges in the order named.

CHARGE 1.

Penrose advocated war with Mexico and opposed at every step the President's desire to have constitutional government restored in our sister Republic without resort to arms.

PROOF.

Those Mexican war clouds caused Mr. Penrose many fearful days and weeks of sleepless nights. Like April weather his opinions have changed often. At one time we find him swinging his mighty patriotic frame yelling for war, and when armed intervention is decided upon to hasten the end of the Mexican internal strife the same Penrose comes forth with his customary gusto and cries out: "We must keep our hands off that poor, helpless Republic to our south."

Had the Congress of the United States adopted a resolution offered by Mr. Penrose on August 21, 1913, providing for the distribution of United States troops throughout the Mexican Republic we would to-day mourn the death of hundreds, yea thousands of our gallant young soldiers instead of the two score who laid down their lives in loving and patriotic sacrifice to their country in the forced occupation of Vera Cruz.

It doesn't require a very imaginative mind to picture what misery and bloodshed would have resulted had President Wilson endeavored to carry out the Penrose proviso—to use the Senator's exact words—"to place a sufficient number of troops as a constabulary in the Republic of Mexico," to protect American interests, and so forth.

To get a Democratic administration shouldered with actual conflict with Mexico would have been the realization of his fondest hopes. His purpose accomplished, no matter at what cost, he would have boarded his palatial yacht "Betty" for a cruise of inspection about the shores of Nova Scotia.

CHARGE 2.

On the floor of the Senate Penrose has heaped insult and ridicule upon the volunteer soldiery of the Republic.

PROOF.

When President Wilson was forced, by a condition of affairs in Mexico, to ask Congress for approval of his course in compelling the Dictator of Mexico to make amends for insults and injuries, Penrose was one of the first to raise his hand and voice in protest. The country at large is pretty well aware of the insults which he heaped upon the heads of those patriotic citizens of Colorado who offered their services in Mexico when this country was passing through the dark hour of uncertainty over the Mexican problem, when the Senate of the United States, Republicans, Progressives and Democrats, by a good majority voted to sustain the President. If you have not learned of your senior Senator's patriotic values, turn to the congressional Record of April 22 and then look on page 7604.

Senator Shafroth of Colorado caused to be read before the Senate a telegram from the United Spanish War Veterans' volunteer cavalry regiment, of Colorado, in which they offered their services to the country in what they believed to be an hour of extreme peril. Following the reading of this telegram, Mr. Penrose, with an air of insolence and insult, belittled the action of the Colorado volunteers by stating before the Senate that he could readily bring forth a number of such telegrams from Pennsylvania fire companies. He calmly stated that such news on the part of the loyal and patriotic citizens of Colorado should never be brought before the Senate, it being beneath the dignity of that distinguished body.

Mr. Penrose, viewing with horror, as you must, the awful war that is now shaking the European continent, do you still wish that we must have become embroiled in a foreign war on this continent, so that now the whole civilized world would be in arms?

CHARGE 3.

He has been the staunch defender of monopoly, the willing attorney for the corruptionist and the white-washer-in-chief for the crooked legislator, the bribe-giver and the bribe-taker.

PROOF.

In the special session of the 55th Congress, beginning March 15, 1897, the very session in which Senator Penrose began his service of 18 long years of misrepresentation, we find recorded his first act as a Senator favoring the special and corporate interests of the United States. Turn to page 2845 of the Congressional Record under date of the roll call upon Senator Tillman's motion for the consideration of his now famous resolution for the appointment of a committee to investigate into the methods of the American Sugar Refining Company in controlling legislation in its favor; also providing for an investigation of charges which were being made at that time against Senators of speculating in sugar stocks. Here is recorded Penrose's initial act of misrepresenting our interests. Instead of voting for the Tillman resolution and thereby causing to be made an investigation into the sugar trust corruption about which the public was then so vitally and materially concerned—facts which they demanded through the agency of a Federal board of inquiry, he voted against the consideration of the resolution and in favor of concealing facts and conditions which undoubtedly would have proven injurious to the trust itself, as well as some of the United States Senators who were openly charged with unlawful sugar stock speculation. If the monopolistic interests were employing methods which gained for them unlawful privileges, the people of the United States had a right to know it. If Senators were receiving tips and were carrying

FIFTY COUNTS AGAINST PENROSE.

Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic nominee for United States senator, opened his campaign at Bethlehem last week with a broadside against Senator Penrose that has already sent the senator and many of his gang organs to cover. As Mr. Palmer said at Bethlehem, if it were possible for Penrose, or any other man, to make up a truthful indictment of this character against Palmer, and to prove even the half of it, the Democratic candidate would sink out of the campaign, his head bowed in shame, rather than to ask any self-respecting voter to endorse such a record.

With all the labored efforts of the machine candidates and editors to dismiss this damning indictment with a wave of the hand and a show of indifference, there is plenty of evidence that the blow hit its mark and that the Republican candidate is staggering under its effects.

It is noticeable that Congressman Palmer does not deal in glittering generalities, but in specific charges and specific facts, which he is presenting to the people of the state, night by night, with telling effect.

Since Penrose cannot and does not deny that he advocated war with Mexico; that he insulted the volunteer soldiery of the republic; that he has defended monopoly, corruption and crookedness and befriended bribe-givers and bribe-takers; that he fought against the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; that he voted against fair child labor legislation; that he opposes publicity of campaign contributions; that he violated corrupt practices acts; that he has used the public treasury to pay his personal henchmen; that he opposed the conservation of natural resources; that he has opposed just tax legislation; that he has consistently favored the corporations as against the government; that he has spied for law-breaking trusts; that he has been repudiated by the moral forces of his own city; that he has opposed just labor legislation, both at Washington and at Harrisburg; that he created and now defends Bigelowism; that he voted for contract labor laws and peonage; that he favors subsidies to private interests; that he has opposed ballot reform; that he is the political agent of the liquor interests—if he cannot and does not deny any one of these and the score of other charges brought against him by Congressman Palmer—how can he possibly justify his appeal for the enforcement of the voters of Pennsylvania?

Many a man has been driven to private life in this state for fewer and less serious offenses against the public welfare. The people of Pennsylvania have their opportunity now to drive out of the public service the man who is directly and personally responsible for most of the evils of government and politics for which other men have often been punished.

Penrose's private opinion of the people who vote to send him to the senate would make good reading.

M'CORMICK ON LABOR.

Vance C. McCormick, Democratic candidate for governor, in his address at Kittanning on Labor Day, fully justified the boast of his friends that he is the one logical candidate entitled to the support of those who are striving, either on behalf of themselves or of others, for just labor legislation. He showed a complete sympathy with, and understanding of, the demands of the workers, and made his position so clear that there can be no doubting his sincere friendship for their cause.

The little labor platform which he incorporated in that address bears repetition:

- "I am in favor of organized labor.
- "I am in favor of the extension of the eight-hour day.
- "I am opposed to the use of the state police or militia under the control of the employers during disturbances.
- "I am in favor of a workmen's compensation and employers' liability act, which will properly compensate the injured and care for the families of men who lost their lives.
- "I favor a child labor bill that will prevent children from working under the age of fourteen, and only with proper regulations between the ages of fourteen and sixteen.
- "I favor a most rigid regulation governing the employment of men in mines and placing safeguards about them.
- "I favor the appointment of a commission to study the wage question and all conditions of employment.
- "I commend the action of President Wilson in appointing as the head of the new labor department a true representative of labor.
- "I believe that our own state government is too much of an employers' government, and that in the various state departments that have to do with the protection of life and the interests of the laboring men, those men themselves should be directly and personally represented.
- "I believe absolutely in the keeping of pledges.
- "I am opposed to any organization, whether it be labor or political, that breaks faith or violates its contracts."

Penrose wanted to send American boys to their death in Mexico. Wilson saved many an American home from sorrow and privation.

PROVED—

BY CONGRESSMAN A. MITCHELL PALMER.

1. That Senator Boies Penrose advocated war with Mexico.
- On August 21, 1913, he introduced a resolution in the United States senate, appropriating $25,000,000 to pay the expense of an American expedition, to police Mexico with American soldiers. That would have meant certain war.
2. That on the floor of the senate he heaped insult and ridicule on the volunteer soldiery of the republic.
- When Senator Shafroth read a telegram, offering the services of a company of Colorado boys to the government, it landed in Mr. Penrose's first sneered at the message, then declared it was beneath the dignity of the senate to hear such offers presented.
3. That he has defended monopoly and been the willing attorney for corruptionists.
- In the special session of congress, beginning March 15, 1897, he voted against the Tillman resolution to investigate the Sugar Trust and its favors to senators, thereby helping to shield men later convicted of cross frauds.
4. That he has bitterly fought against the direct election of United States senators.
- He smothered the McCord bill in the state senate; supported every dilatory motion aimed against the reform in the United States senate, and finally voted against it on final passage, February 28, 1911.
5. That he has voted against child labor legislation.

In 1908 he voted to reduce the age limit for the child laborers in the district of Columbia, from fourteen years to twelve, and otherwise to cripple the bill aiming to prevent the little children from being deprived of a child's life, a wholesome mind in a sound body.

Memoirs of Napoleon
In Three Volumes

The personal reminiscences of Baron de Méneval, for thirteen years private secretary to Napoleon Bonaparte, bring out, as no history can, many enlightening and interesting side lights on the character of that greatest of leaders. De Méneval's descriptions have the piquancy and interest possible only because he was an actual eyewitness of the scenes and incidents of which he writes. Their reliability and historical interest can be judged by the fact that the very conservative French Academy publicly recommends them.

NEW DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

Our representatives wear this badge.

The publishers of the old reliable FARM JOURNAL of Philadelphia, are preparing to publish the Illustrated DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY, giving the name, post-office, rural route, and telephone connection of every farmer, business man, and householder in the county, all arranged alphabetically, and a classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY, including all business houses in the county, arranged under the proper headings.

With the Directory is given a complete ROAD MAP of the county, with every road NUMBERED to show the exact location of each farm, as given in the Directory.

This Directory will contain many interesting PICTURES of well-known farmers and business men of the county, fine farms, thoroughbred stock, churches and public institutions, schools and pupils, etc.

The names and necessary information are being secured by PERSONAL CANVASS of all houses and business places, and of the 3752 farms in the county. This Directory and Road Map are so useful and interesting that from our experience in other counties we can guarantee that the Directory will go into at least TWO THOUSAND HOMES OF ADAMS COUNTY, where it will be constantly used by farmers and business men for the next five years.

The Farm Journal Directories are an immense improvement over directories, containing what most publications do not give. Beside all the usual information, they give the names, addresses, telephone connection, and other important information about FARMERS, secured by PERSONAL CANVASS from each farmer himself. This canvass of country districts is so costly that most directory publishers cannot afford to make it, and ordinary lists of farmers published are in nearly all cases merely copied from official lists.

The classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY includes every business house in the county, whether in city or country. In other directories the names of houses in cities and large towns only are given.

These features with the ROAD Map, makes the Farm Journal Directory an indispensable hand-book for every live farmer and business man in the county.

If you are not sure that correct information about your farm or business has been given to one of our canvassers, please send it direct to our main office.

on systematic personal profits, the people had a right to know this, and also to demand the full and complete facts in the matter.

Private investigations, conducted by individuals and independent newspapers, had already disclosed gross betrayals of public trust and placed at the door of certain United States Senators charges of displaying favoritism to the big interests. The larger corporations were being granted, by special privileges, the power of discriminating against the weaker, this being done through the medium of contribution to political bosses and organizations, and in the form of bribes to the members of the national and State Legislatures.

An investigation of the sugar Trust was made when the Democratic party came into power. Enormous frauds were uncovered, resulting in arrest and conviction of dishonest government officers. Penrose's vote was to shield the guilty Senators and save the trust for future corrupting practices.

Had Senator Penrose been inspired with any real desire to serve the people, rather than having the evident purpose to work against them he would have had no fear in favoring a movement looking to an exposure of the methods of that great monopoly, the Sugar Trust.

Mr. Penrose do you still favor, as you did in 1897, the white-wash brush as an instrument for covering the wickedness of corruption in high places? Was your vote for Lorimer actuated by the same motives as your vote with the Sugar Trust?

CHARGE 4.

He has been the consistent opponent of every forward step in popular government. He fought bitterly against the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, and now seeks to be the first beneficiary of the system which he condemned.

PROOF.

It has taken a good many years of hard fighting to get Penrose before the people of Pennsylvania where they would have an opportunity to indicate exactly what they thought of him. At last we have got him there but not with his consent.

When the question of the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people came before the Senate, those members who had their places by the grace of corrupt legislatures and the backing of grateful monopolies used every means known to parliamentary procedure to delay the consideration of the bill in order that they might not be compelled to go flatly on record for or against it. You see, they did not want United States Senators to be amenable to the people of the States they represented instead of only to the few men who were in a position to guarantee the election, although this idea was then gaining strength with the people. Even some of the thoroughly reactionary Senators saw the light and decided to accept the inevitable. But not so with Penrose.

In the third session of the 61st Congress, on February 17th, 1911, the resolution providing for a constitutional amendment for the direct election of United States Senators was called up in the Senate, where one of the "fried-cats" in the Senate tried to stifle debate by moving that the Senate adjourn. This motion was lost but we find Penrose voting to adjourn.

But in the Senate of the United States Penrose was not able to pursue his dodging tactics, and on February 23, 1911, the resolution to amend the Constitution was put on its final passage. Penrose had to vote and he voted "nay" as did the other Senator from Pennsylvania, Mr. Oliver. Could there be any coincidence in the fact that William Lorimer, of Illinois, who was himself later to be cast out of the Senate for gaining his election by reason of having corrupted a legislature, voted with Penrose?

Those who stood with Penrose in opposing this proposition asserted in effect that the people were incapable of selecting Senators and that theirs was the clamor of a mob. As between the vote of the legislature, I prefer the people every time. And no man in the proper realization of his obligations would want for one minute to hold a place in the United States Senate when he knew that the sentiment of the people of the State was against him. That's the crux of the whole situation. That is why Penrose opposed giving an opportunity to the people to get him where we have got him now where his record in the United States Senate would rise up to plague him. He knew that the people have memories. He knew that it would be no longer possible for the river wards and other venal voting districts in large cities to send subsidized representatives to the legislature in sufficient numbers and insure his re-election.

Mr. Penrose, having so long and strenuously opposed the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, is it decent for you to ask to become the first beneficiary of the system which you condemned?

Lewis Leaves Field to McCormick.

William Draper Lewis, the Washington Party nominee for Governor, has announced his withdrawal as a candidate for Governor in favor of Vance C. McCormick, the Democratic candidate. In a statement Dr. Lewis said: "I accepted the nomination of the Washington Party for Governor to help break control of the corrupt Penrose organization on the State government and to help the people place on our statute books a local option law, and such progressive legislation as the child labor bill, the workmen's compensation bill and the corrupt practices act."

"The campaign had hardly begun before it became clear that the liquor interests, the exploiters of women and child labor, and the opponents of good election laws are as solidly behind Doctor Brumbaugh, the candidate of the Yares, the McNichols and the Crows, as they are behind Senator Penrose. They know that his election perpetuates their grip upon the government of this State."

"On the other hand, Vance C. McCormick the Democratic candidate for Governor, is, as I am, fighting to redeem this State from Penroseism. He stands for the principal progressive measures defeated by the Senate in the 1912 legislature. He is an advocate of the initiative and referendum. His sincere interest in the passage of a local option bill is not doubted by any one. He will not only sign such a bill if passed by the legislature, but the people know he will work unceasingly for its adoption."

"I have come to believe that a contest between Mr. McCormick and myself for the Governorship is most unfortunate. The forces making for evil are united; those making for righteousness should not be divided. It is the fervent wish of great multitudes of people of all classes and conditions to end the kind of government at Harrisburg which has given us Bigelow and Bigelowism. They should have one candidate, and not two, representing the same ideas and ideals of good State government. The task of freeing this State from evil moral influences is too big and vital to allow personal or partisan ambition to interfere with its consummation."

"I placed all these considerations at length before the conference, which was representative of the Washington Party of the State. After an exhaustive discussion in which every shade of opinion was given full liberty of expression, the overwhelming sentiment of the conference was that the forces making for the political and social redemption of the State should be united behind one candidate. In order that this result may be accomplished I shall send to the State Committee of the Washington Party my resignation as its candidate for Governor."

"If my resignation shall be accepted and Mr. McCormick takes my place as candidate of the Washington Party, I shall labor just as hard for his election as I would have done for my own. Thus united, the forces desiring clean, honest, responsible government will win a great victory."

"I want it to be distinctly understood that my decision is not the result of any agreement with the Democrats in regard to the other places on the ticket. The sentiment of the conference was strongly in favor of my taking this action without any reference to any action which may be taken by any other party."

MCCORMICK HEARS OF WITHDRAWAL.

When he heard of the action taken by William Draper Lewis, Vance C. McCormick, Democratic candidate for Governor said:

"I would of course be very much gratified if my name should be placed upon the Washington Party ticket as the candidate for Governor. Dean Lewis' action and that of the Washington Party leaders is an example of the same spirit I have met all over the State and indicates that independent and progressive Republicans are showing an unshakable determination to drive Penroseism out of Pennsylvania."

Congressman Palmer in commenting said: "The action of Dr. Lewis is the only practical sort of fusion that could be considered. His retirement will mean that Mr. McCormick will be the candidate of all the anti-machine forces, without conditions or trades of any kind. It means that the ticket cannot be beaten."

In the early stages of civilization houses were sufficiently primitive to insure a healthful degree of ventilation. In recent years there has been much talk in regard to the improvement necessary in housing conditions. In the larger cities there are many miserable tenements which are unfit for habitation but the great majority of our modern houses are constructed on sanitary lines and would be more healthful if they were properly used.

All the living rooms and bed rooms should have a sufficient amount of fresh air passing through them to keep the atmosphere perfectly sweet. With the arrival of the cold weather comes the problem of properly heating the house. The ordinary hot air furnace provides for the admission of fresh air as do indirect systems of steam and hot water heating but where the radiators are placed in the rooms heating too often means raising the temperature of the impure and stagnant air which often remains unchanged for hours regardless of the number of people who breathe it.

It may add to the expense of heating our homes and places of business to permit constant admission of fresh air and the discharge of that which has been vitiated. Health, however, depends upon the quality and quantity of the air we breathe and the slight additional expenditure required for heat plus ventilation will mean much to health when compared with heat minus ventilation.

The latter is responsible for the great increase in pneumonia which occurs during the winter months.

Nature's Little Ship.

While man makes the largest ocean vessels, nature makes the smallest. This is a species of jellyfish, found only in tropical seas, which has a sail. The part of the fish under the water looks like a mass of tangled threads, while the sail is a tough membrane shaped like a shell and measuring quite five inches and sometimes more across. The fish can raise or lower this sail at will. Wise sailors let this curiosity of nature alone, for each of the threads composing its body has the power of stinging, the results of which are very painful and often dangerous. This power defends it from porpoises, albatrosses and other natural enemies. It has no other means of locomotion than its sail, and when seen skimming bravely along the surface of the water it looks more like a child's toy boat than a living creature out in search of food.—London Opinion.

Going Fast.

Once there was a hypochondriac who used to think that he was dying about three times a week. One day he was driving out in his automobile, and one of these spells came over him. On the road ahead of him he happened to see his family doctor speeding along in his roadster. He felt so sick that he applied all his power in order to catch up with the doctor as soon as possible.

But the doctor saw him coming, and he used all the gas he had to get away from him. For about three miles they had a close race. Finally, however, the doctor had some tire trouble, and the hypochondriac drew up alongside.

"Doctor," he shouted, "stop a minute! I am dying! Darn it all, I'm dying!"

"You must be," grunted the physician. "I never saw anybody going so fast as you are."—New York Globe.

A Check With a History.

A curious souvenir is preserved in the Bank of England in the shape of a note for £1,000 with which Admiral Lord Cochrane paid his fine when he was falsely accused of spreading with an interested object a rumor that Bonaparte was dead in 1814 so as to cause a rise in the price of stocks. The sum mentioned was raised in subscriptions of a penny by his Westminster constituents. The note is indorsed with the name of the intrepid but ill-used sailor and has inscribed on it a sentence in which he expresses the hope that one day he will prove his innocence and triumph over his accusers. That consummation was not effected until eighteen years later, when he was reinstated by William IV.—London Telegraph.

An Anticlimax.

Sir Henry Irving was frequently a victim to the interjections of gallery gods. When playing "Macbeth" one night he had reached that dramatic moment in the banquet scene when in dreadful fear he bids the ghost of Banquo to vanish:

Hence, horrible shadow!
Unreal mockery, hence!

he exclaimed and, shuddering convulsively, dropped to his knees, covering his face with his robe. As the ghost vanished a shrill voice in the gallery broke the momentary silence. "It's all right now. 'Hence' he's gone!"—London Mail.

Social Puzzle.

Why is it that a man will willingly wait a half hour for a girl to get ready for a show before they are married and then fuss because the breakfast is ten minutes late after they have been married a year or so?—Macon Telegraph.

Feminine Intuition.

Hattie—I'm positive George loves me and wants me to be his wife. Ella—Has he told you so? Hattie—No, but he has taken such a strong dislike to mamma.—Chicago Tribune.

His Weak Point.

The Stage Manager—He can play "drunken parts" better than any man on the stage. The Business Manager—Yes, but he's too fond of rehearsing.—Illustrated Bits.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED.

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.

To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

Sea Mussels as Food.

The sea mussel is closely related to the oyster and the clam. It is not, however, to be confused with the fresh water mussel. As a nutritious and wholesome food it is equal to either the oyster or the clam, and many persons regard it as superior in flavor. The mussels exist in such abundance in such readily accessible places, and they are so readily obtained by the oysterman's regular equipment, that they can be put upon the market at lower cost than can either oysters or clams. They are at their best, moreover, when oysters are out of season, though they are in season all the year round. As a food they are economically good not only because of their high nutritive value and digestibility, but because, unlike the clam, all the meat is edible, and, because their shells are thin and regular, a barrel of mussels contains more edible material than a barrel of oysters. A peck of mussels in the shell will supply all the meat required for a meal for ten persons.

Tipping the Headman.

Ancient usage in England has a peculiarly consecrating effect in the matter of tips and fees. Horace Walpole records the astonishment of George I. when told that he must give guineas to the servant of the ranger of his park for bringing him a brace of carp out of his own pond. Apparently everybody in England is at some time or other justified in demanding a fee unless it be the monarch. When Tait became archbishop of Canterbury and met the queen he breathed a sigh of relief on at last encountering a person to whom he had not to pay something. According to Bishop Burnet, a man used to have to give a tip in order to be decapitated. He tells the story of Lord Russell when under sentence of death for high treason asking what he ought to give the executioner. "I told him 10 guineas. He said, with a smile, it was a pretty thing to give a fee to have his head cut off."

Chess and War.

The origin of chess is shrouded in mystery. There is little doubt, however, that its birthplace was in India and that it is an offspring of a game called chaturanga, which is mentioned in oriental literature as in use fully 200 years before the Christian era. From India chess spread into Persia and thence into Arabia, and ultimately the Arabs took it into Spain and the rest of western Europe. The game was in all probability invented for the purpose of illustrating the art of war. The Arab legend upon this point is that it was devised for the instruction of a young despot by his father, a learned Brahman, to teach him that a king, notwithstanding his power, was dependent for safety upon his subjects. The Greek historians credit the invention of the game to Palamedes, who, they claim, devised it to beguile the tedium of the siege of Troy during the Trojan war.

Sleepwalkers.

Many years ago an archbishop of Bordeaux attested the case of a young ecclesiastic who was in the habit of getting up during the night in a state of somnambulism, and, taking pen, ink and paper, composing and writing his sermons. When he finished one page he would read and correct it. In order to ascertain whether the somnambulist made use of his eyes the archbishop held a piece of pasteboard under his chin to prevent his seeing the paper upon which he was writing, but he continued to write on without being in the least inconvenienced.

It is related of Negretti, a sleepwalker, that he would sometimes carry a lighted candle, as if to give him light in his employment, but on a bottle being substituted he took it and carried it without apparently noticing the difference.

Curious Pictures.

In the famous galleries at Antwerp are certain pictures of old masters in which the figure of Jesus as remarkable as the technique is fine. In one picture of Leona the archangel is armed with bows and arrows, and in a celebrated painting of "The Murder of the Innocents" the massacre is represented as taking place in a city of Holland. The parents of the children are seen murdering the Roman soldiers are Dutch gentlemen armed with muskets, and the innocent infants are transformed into solid schoolboys in baby coats, trousers and jackets and bonneted shoes.

Hereditary.

"And when you grow up," said the visitor to six-year-old Elsie. "I suppose you will get married?" "Oh, there's hardly any doubt about it," answered the small miss. "Everybody says I am much like mamma, and she has been married three times, you know."

Gallant Lover.

"Silly boy," she said, "why did you get offended? Though my words were severe, you might have seen that I was smiling." "Well," he replied magnanimously, "your mouth is so small I didn't notice it."—Philadelphia Press.

THE INDICTMENT OF PENROSE

Palmer Presents Proof of Charges Made.

Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, having presented to the people of Pennsylvania an indictment of fifty charges against Penrose, proceeded last week with a presentation of the evidence in proof of the charges. He began with the charges in the order named.

CHARGE 1.

Penrose advocated war with Mexico and opposed at every step the President's desire to have constitutional government restored in our sister Republic without resort to arms.

PROOF.

"Those Mexican war clouds caused Mr. Penrose many fearful days and weeks of sleepless nights. Like April weather his opinions have changed often. At one time we find him twining his mighty patriotic frame yelling for war, and when armed intervention is decided upon to hasten the end of the Mexican internal strife the same Penrose comes forth with his customary gusto and cries out: 'We must keep our hands off that poor, helpless Republic to our south.'"

Had the Congress of the United States adopted a resolution offered by Mr. Penrose on August 21, 1913, providing for the distribution of United States troops throughout the Mexican Republic we would to-day mourn the death of hundreds, yea thousands of our gallant young soldiers instead of the two score who laid down their lives in loving and patriotic sacrifice to their country in the forced occupation of Vera Cruz.

It doesn't require a very imaginative mind to picture what misery and bloodshed would have resulted had President Wilson endeavored to carry out the Penrose proviso—to use the Senator's exact words—"to place a sufficient number of troops as a constabulary in the Republic of Mexico," to protect American interests, and so forth.

To get a Democratic administration shouldered with actual conflict with Mexico would have been the realization of his fondest hopes. His purpose accomplished, no matter at what cost, he would have boarded his palatial yacht "Betty" for a cruise of inspection about the shores of Nova Scotia.

CHARGE 2.

On the floor of the Senate Penrose has heaped insult and ridicule upon the volunteer soldiery of the Republic.

PROOF.

When President Wilson was forced, by a condition of affairs in Mexico, to ask Congress for approval of his course in compelling the Dictator of Mexico to make amends for insults and injuries, Penrose was one of the first to raise his hand and voice in protest. The country at large is pretty well aware of the insults which he heaped upon the heads of those patriotic citizens of Colorado who offered their services in Mexico when this country was passing through the dark hour of uncertainty over the Mexican problem, when the Senate of the United States, Republicans, Progressives and Democrats, by a good majority voted to sustain the President. If you have not learned of your senior Senator's patriotic values, turn to the congressional Record of April 22 and then look on page 7604.

Senator Shafroth of Colorado caused to be read before the Senate a telegram from the United Spanish War Veterans' volunteer cavalry regiment, of Colorado, in which they offered their services to the country in what they believed to be an hour of extreme peril. Following the reading of this telegram, Mr. Penrose, with an air of insolence and insult, belittled the action of the Colorado volunteers by stating before the Senate that he could readily bring forth a number of such telegrams from Pennsylvania fire companies. He calmly stated that such news on the part of the loyal and patriotic citizens of Colorado should never be brought before the Senate, it being beneath the dignity of that distinguished body.

Mr. Penrose, viewing with horror, as you must, the awful war that is now shaking the European continent, do you still wish that we must have become embroiled in a foreign war on this continent, so that now the whole civilized world would be in arms?

CHARGE 3.

He has been the staunch defender of monopoly, the willing attorney for the corruptionist and the white-washer-in-chief for the crooked legislator, the bribe-giver, and the bribe-taker.

PROOF.

In the special session of the 55th Congress, beginning March 15, 1897, the very session in which Senator Penrose began his service of 18 long years of misrepresentation, we find recorded his first act as a Senator favoring the special and corporate interests of the United States. Turn to page 2845 of the Congressional Record under date of the roll call upon Senator Tillman's motion for the consideration of his now famous resolution for the appointment of a committee to investigate into the methods of the American Sugar Refining Company in controlling legislation in its favor; also providing for an investigation of charges which were being made at that time against Senators of speculating in sugar stocks. Here is recorded Penrose's initial act of misrepresenting your interests. Instead of voting for the Tillman resolution and thereby causing to be made an investigation into the sugar trust corruption about which the public was then so vitally and materially concerned—facts which they demanded through the agency of a Federal board of inquiry, he voted against the consideration of the resolution and in favor of concealing facts and conditions which undoubtedly would have proven injurious to the trust itself, as well as some of the United States Senators who were openly charged with unlawful sugar stock speculation. If the monopolistic interests were employing methods which gained for them unlawful privileges, the people of the United States had a right to know it. If Senators were receiving tips and were carrying

FIFTY COUNTS AGAINST PENROSE.

Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic nominee for United States senator, opened his campaign at Bethlehem last week with a broadside against Senator Penrose that has already sent the senator and many of his gang organs to cover. As Mr. Palmer said at Bethlehem, if it were possible for Penrose, or any other man, to make up a truthful indictment of this character against Palmer, and to prove even the half of it, the Democratic candidate would sink out of the campaign, his head bowed in shame, rather than to ask any self-respecting voter to endorse such a record.

With all the labored efforts of the machine candidates and editors to dismiss this damning indictment with a wave of the hand and a show of indifference, there is plenty of evidence that the blow hit its mark and that the Republican candidate is staggering under its effects.

It is noticeable that Congressman Palmer does not deal in glittering generalities, but in specific charges and specific facts, which he is presenting to the people of the state, night by night, with telling effect.

Since Penrose cannot and does not deny that he advocated war with Mexico; that he insulted the volunteer soldiery of the republic; that he has defended monopoly, corruption and crookedness and befriended bribe-givers and bribe-takers; that he fought against the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; that he voted against fair child labor legislation; that he opposes publicity of campaign contributions; that he violated corrupt practices acts; that he has used the public treasury to pay his personal henchmen; that he opposed the conservation of natural resources; that he has opposed just tax legislation; that he has consistently favored the corporations as against the government; that he has spied for law-breaking trusts; that he has been repudiated by the moral forces of his own city; that he has opposed just labor legislation, both at Washington and at Harrisburg; that he created and now defends Bigelowism; that he voted for contract labor laws and peonage; that he favors subsidies to private interests; that he has opposed ballot reform; that he is the political agent of the liquor interests—if he cannot and does not deny any one of these and the score of other charges brought against him by Congressman Palmer—how can he possibly justify his appeal for the enforcement of the voters of Pennsylvania?

Many a man has been driven to private life in this state for fewer and less serious offenses against the public welfare. The people of Pennsylvania have their opportunity now to drive out of the public service the man who is directly and personally responsible for most of the evils of government and politics for which other men have often been punished.

Penrose's private opinion of the people who vote to send him to the senate would make good reading.

M'CORMICK ON LABOR.

Vance C. McCormick, Democratic candidate for governor, in his address at Kittanning on Labor Day, fully justified the boast of his friends that he is the one logical candidate entitled to the support of those who are striving, either on behalf of themselves or of others, for just labor legislation. He showed a complete sympathy with, and understanding of, the demands of the workers, and made his position so clear that there can be no doubting his sincere friendship for their cause.

The little labor platform which he incorporated in that address bears repetition:

- "I am in favor of organized labor.
- "I am in favor of the extension of the eight-hour day.
- "I am opposed to the use of the state police or militia under the control of the employers during disturbances.
- "I am in favor of a workmen's compensation and employers' liability act, which will properly compensate the injured and care for the families of men who lost their lives.
- "I favor a child labor bill that will prevent children from working under the age of fourteen, and only with proper regulations between the ages of fourteen and sixteen.
- "I favor a most rigid regulation governing the employment of men in mines and placing safeguards about them.
- "I favor the appointment of a commission to study the wage question and all conditions of employment.
- "I commend the action of President Wilson in appointing as the head of the new labor department a true representative of labor.
- "I believe that our own state government is too much of an employers' government, and that in the various state departments that have to do with the protection of life and the interests of the laboring men, those men themselves should be directly and personally represented.
- "I believe absolutely in the keeping of pledges.
- "I am opposed to any organization, whether it be labor or political, that breaks faith or violates its contracts."

Penrose wanted to send American boys to their death in Mexico. Wilson saved many an American home from sorrow and privation.

PROVED—

BY CONGRESSMAN A. MITCHELL PALMER.

1. That Senator Boies Penrose advocated war with Mexico.
On August 21, 1913, he introduced a resolution in the United States senate, appropriating $25,000,000 to pay the expense of an American expedition to police Mexico with American soldiers. That would have meant certain war.
2. That on the floor of the senate he heaped insult and ridicule on the volunteer soldiery of the republic.
When Senator Shafroth read a telegram, offering the services of a company of Colorado boys to the government, it read in Mr. Penrose's presence first sneered at the message, then declared it was beneath the dignity of the senate to hear such offers presented.
3. That he has defended monopoly and been the willing attorney for corruptionists.
In the special session of congress, beginning March 15, 1897, he voted against the Tillman resolution to investigate the Sugar Trust, and in favor of senators, thereby helping to enable men later convicted of gross frauds.
4. That he has bitterly fought against the direct election of United States senators.
He smothered the McCord bill in the state senate; supported every dilatory motion aimed against the reform in the United States senate, and finally voted against it on final passage, February 23, 1912.
5. That he has voted against child labor legislation.
In 1908 he voted to reduce the age limit for the child workers in the district of Columbia, from fourteen years to twelve, and otherwise to cripple the bill aiming to prevent the little children from being deprived of a child's life, a wholesome mind and a sound body.

The personal reminiscences of Baron de Méneval, for thirteen years private secretary to Napoleon Bonaparte, bring out, as no history can, many enlightening and interesting side lights on the character of that greatest of leaders. De Méneval's descriptions have the piquancy and interest possible only because he was an actual eyewitness of the scenes and incidents of which he writes. Their reliability and historical interest can be judged by the fact that the very conservative French Academy publicly recommends them.

REV. JOHN FRANKLIN MACKLEY, M.D., of Fairfield, died suddenly at his home on Wednesday evening from heart disease, aged 59 years. His health had been of the best for some years, but he was always able to be about. On Wednesday he attended a meeting of the directors of the First National Bank of Fairfield and appeared as well as usual. In the evening he ate a hearty supper. Shortly after the meal he was seized with indigestion and death ensued. In July he had undergone operation in a Baltimore hospital. Dr. Mackley was born minister and physician. He was born in Straban township, a son of Peter and Margaret Mackley. He attended the schools of his township in early life and in 1872 entered Preparatory Department in this place and graduated from Gettysburg College in 1878. He taught for two years, first in Straban township and then in Littlestown. He then entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Baltimore, graduating in 1882 with degree of doctor of medicine. He practiced medicine in Baltimore and Marietta, Lancaster county, and then attended the Reformed Seminary at Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster, graduating in 1886. He served Reformed congregations at Lombertine, Maytown and St. Thomas, and was called as pastor of the Fairfield Reformed Church in 1892 and was its pastor eleven years, until 1903. He bought a farm at edge of Fairfield, and upon his retirement from the ministry he devoted his time to the study and practice of medicine. Rev. Dr. Mackley both as minister and physician gave himself toward the welfare of his fellowman, and enjoyed the respect and esteem of the communities in which he lived, served and went about doing good. He was married in 1870 to Miss Annie Haines, who survives, with following brothers and sisters, Samuel and Miss Maggie of York, Mrs. Elizabeth Michener, Mrs. Sarah and Mrs. Anna Huff of New Chesapeake and Mrs. Minnie Cooker of Chesapeake, Md.

He was a member of the Lutheran Church and funeral was held on Wednesday, Sept. 13, at 10 o'clock, interment being made in the Lutheran Cemetery of this place. He leaves a wife, a son and two daughters, Harry M. Trostle of Highland township, Mrs. L. D. Mickley of Cashtown, and Mrs. Wm. Carbaugh of Highland.

Every Democrat and patriotic citizen should read and study the indictment of Senator Penrose made by Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer. Last week we printed the fifty charges of this indictment. In other columns are submitted the proofs of the charges, taking them up in their order. The charges do not go into personal character but are supported by proof of the public records showing exactly what Senator Penrose has stood for. In reading them, the citizen should continually ask himself, has Penrose represented him in his votes and public action. If the voter can not approve of his votes in his official acts he can satisfy himself with the best reasons that Penrose has not represented the people and that the man now to be voted for U. S. Senator is Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer.

NEWS FROM MAINE.

Have you heard the news from Maine? At the election on Monday Maine went Democratic, electing Oakley C. Curtis, Democrat, over Wm. T. Haines, Republican, by a majority of 2,587, nearly 1,000 more than the majority of Wilson in 1912. The one Democratic congressman, Daniel McGillicuddy, was re-elected and the Maine Legislature on joint ballot is Democratic by 17. Over 18,000 more votes were cast than in 1912. This election has a meaning that goes home to every citizen and Democrat. It means a vote of confidence in the great Democratic President, Woodrow Wilson. He has proven himself to be one of the greatest statesmen of his age and has won universal recognition for his grasp of government and for his high sense of the greatest political principles of a 19th century. He has shown that his acts in Congress and on the Maine campaign are the result of a high sense of duty and a deep knowledge of the principles of government.

Red Blood

Is good blood—blood that nourishes the whole body, and enables every organ to perform its functions naturally. Many people owe it to HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, which relieves scrofula, eczema, psoriasis, and all blood humors.

It means more. Back of President Wilson stands a Democratic Congress to give heed to the voice of the people personified in Wilson. A logical vote of confidence in Wilson is to vote for the Democratic United States Senator from Pennsylvania, and the Democratic Congressman from this district, and so make sure of a Democratic Congress to support Wilson and his most important legislation in the interests of all the people.

It means even more than all this. It means giving support to the Democratic principles of good, clean government for which McCormick stands. Let every loyal Democrat in old Adams and every citizen believing in supporting President Wilson, give such a vote of confidence that will assure a Democratic Congress and a Democratic administration at Harrisburg.

RUNK & PECKMAN'S Realty Report

TO BUYERS—We have about 50 farms for sale. The owners have placed these farms in our hands because they want to sell. If we solicited properties we could have twice as many on our list, but at prices that anyone would be foolish to pay. We do not drive over the country asking this man and that one if he will sell; then list the property at an exorbitant price and try to talk someone into buying for more than it is worth simply to make a commission. Our reputation and facilities for disposing of properties enables us to list only those properties that are actually for sale and not simply priced to catch some unwary buyer. We give our honest opinion of any property on our list, whether it makes or loses a sale.

To advertise all our properties each week makes a large advertising bill, if you send us a card saying you are in the market for a property and advise us about what you want we will send you a description of any property we think will suit you. You will be under no obligation to buy for we do not urge anyone to buy what he does not want. We are in business here to stay and you can count on fair treatment.

GET RID OF YOUR CANADA THISTLES

And Increase Your Profits, Your Acreage and Your Products.

The Little Wonder Weed Exterminator

It Will Positively Kill CANADA THISTLES and Other Similar Weeds.

The LITTLE WONDER kills the plants in 24 hours, and when the soil is not disturbed for 10 days or two weeks after applying, the roots will be thoroughly destroyed.

Its discovery as a positive weed killer is a valuable one, since so many attempts have been made to get rid of these pests, and the results heretofore have been unsuccessful.

Applied freely with a sprinkling can or spray nozzle. The first application will kill the plants and usually the roots, but the second application about one week later will exterminate the weed entirely.

In addition to Canada Thistles, the following weeds can be treated in like manner: Horse Nettle, Milk Weed, Toad Flax, Ground Ivy, Cyprus-Spurge, Nut Grass, Dog Bane, Bindweeds, Quack Grass, Eiders, Sow Thistle, Russian Thistle, Devil's Weed, Etc.

Banking in England.

The system of credit in England is different from that in this country, and the mere fact that a man has an account in a bank serves to give him standing. One cannot open an account with a bank in England merely by carrying money to the bank and depositing it. He must have two first class references before a bank will accept his account, and when reference is given it means that the person giving it would indorse or stand for the person to whom it is given. A reference in England means more than a mere phrase. Checks on banks in England cannot be obtained for the mere asking, and a man must have an account in order to get checks from any bank. They cannot be picked up on bank counters or in public places. Private accounts in English banks are not accepted unless they are paid for, the general charge being $50 a year. There are one or two banks in England which discriminate so carefully in the accounts they accept that when a person is fortunate enough to be permitted to open an account with them he can get credit in any city in England or on the continent of Europe.

Word Painting.

Mrs. Bradley, when questioned by a fellow traveler in the Pullman car in regard to her home, launched forth into a rather long and detailed description of its charms. Her little girl, Grace, who had been reading when she began to speak, soon closed her book and listened with great interest.

"It must be very pleasant," remarked the chance acquaintance, somewhat perfunctorily, when Mrs. Bradley finished, and Grace, her eyes gleaming with enthusiasm, said: "Oh, it must be perfectly lovely! What place is it, mamma?"

"Why, our own home, of course," answered the mother, somewhat embarrassed.

"Oh, dear," said Grace, sighing, "how much better it sounds than it looks!"—Exchange.

Helped the Glass Man.

"She entered the hardware store and said to the clerk:

"I want a pane of window glass ten inches by twelve and I want a man to come right over to my house and set it."

"Very well, ma'am," said the clerk, and calling the proprietor to tend the front of the store, he accompanied the woman around the corner to her house, and around the house to the back porch, where she took the mop, smashed in a perfectly good pane of glass with it, reached through the hole, unlatched the window and said:

"Now go in through the window and unlock the door for me; after that you can put in the new pane and my husband will pay you tomorrow. I left my keys at home when I went calling this afternoon."—Newark News.

Rain Records.

Records of winters in the past bring to light some accounts of excessive rains. In 1909 a gauge kept at Monumental in California, registered 153.54 inches. Only at Glenora, Ore., with a record of 167.29 for a single year, has this rainfall record been exceeded in records for the United States. The heaviest rainfall for a single month ever recorded in the United States was at Helen Mine, Cal., in January, 1909, when 71.54 inches fell. Campo has the record for the heaviest downpour ever recorded in California for a single day. This was eleven and a half inches on Aug. 12, 1891, and all of this fell within eighty minutes. This is far below the American record, however, which is held by Alexandria, La., with a record of 21.4 inches in a single day.—Argonaut.

Direct Question.

At a reunion of the Adams family chicken croquettes gave out, so the maids carefully neglected the younger children. After vainly trying to attract the attention of his mother, one of the little boys at the lower end of the table called out in a loud tone of voice, "Mother!"

"What is it, Albert?" she replied. "Do you think," went on the child, "I should have liked the croquettes if I had had one?"—Lippincott's.

Cannae.

Cannae, where Hannibal won his greatest victory over the Romans, is situated on the opposite side of the peninsula from the city of Rome, on the river Aufidus and about six miles from its mouth. It was from this battle that Hannibal sent to Carthage three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of the Roman knights slain in the battle. Cannae is about 200 miles from Rome.

Wistaria and Wisteria.

Ernest H. Wilson, the distinguished naturalist, has a good laugh on the botanical sticklers. Incidentally he has put in the wrong no end of writers in books, newspapers and periodicals, not to mention the creator of one of the most fashionable colors of recent years for women's apparel. It is all on account of one of the most gorgeous of flowers which Japan and China have ever sent to this country—the wistaria. Before I am snapped up on my spelling of a word we are in the habit of pronouncing that way, but spelling wistaria, I will say that right here is where Mr. Wilson has caught the botanists and the rest of the world napping. Although the magnificent vine whose long purple or white racemes are one of the glories of springtime in the northeastern part of the United States was named after Dr. Wistar of the old Philadelphia family, there was a slip up in the spelling. Christened wisteria when it was introduced it must so stand for ever according to inviolable botanical law. The same is true of the stewartia—it should be properly sturtia.—Spur.

Playing Cricket by Sound.

Pupils of a school for the blind in England play cricket by sound.

With a wicker ball, in which is contained a bell, the bowler prepares to attack the wicket. When a reporter visited the school the boys were practicing their game. "Play!" shouted the bowler, and in reply came the batsman's "Right ho." On hearing this the bowler knew in which direction to send the ball. His fast underhand went straight for the wicket, and the batsman, judging by the tinkling bell, knew when to hit.

"I know exactly how far to run," he said afterward, "because there is a mat at the bowler's end which I feel with my bat."

"The fielders," said the head master of the school, "have the most difficult part to play. But if the ball touches their chests the batsman may as well consider himself out, for immediately a fielder feels the touch of the ball his arms fold around it with amazing rapidity."—London Cor. New York Times

Verse Mistaken For Poetry.

It is curious how persistent the belief is that rhyme constitutes poetry. J. A. Stewart quotes a stanza from a battle hymn by Burns and inquires whether it is mediocre and how much of it depends on dialect. It does not depend on dialect, and it is not mediocre, but it is not poetry; it is rhetorical verse. The lines

A fig for those by laws protected;
Liberty's a glorious feast;
Courts for cowards were erected,
Churches built to please the priest.

have not the faintest suggestion of poetry; they merely make a terse statement in rhyme.

To most people everything that rhymes is a "piece of poetry," even to "Thirty days has September" and other jingles of the kind. No definition of poetry will help. The only true knowledge of the matter comes by instinct.—London Chronicle.

Castle Under the Sea.

Among certain of the Japanese there is a belief that somewhere under the sea there is a wonderful castle in which the beautiful queen of the fishes resides. Sometimes they think this castle rises to the surface and is visible to mortal eyes—a belief that probably had its origin in the phenomenon of the mirage. When the castle appears, the superstitious believe, representatives of all the finny tribes hasten to it to pay homage to their ruler. Some time ago, in honor of the "fishy" queen and her subjects, the fishermen of Futami made a number of gigantic fish of canvas and bamboo, painted in gorgeous colors, which were towed in procession through the water, enormous crowds watching the curious spectacle from the shore.—Wide World Magazine.

The Goose.

The goose, which for some unknown reason has become an emblem of idleness, but which is really a wise bird of good habits and one of the most profitable for the fancier, was probably the first fowl to be domesticated by man. Homer, 1,200 years before the Christian era, speaks of his geese, in which he was greatly interested, and the hieroglyphics of Egypt prove that at his time they had been tamed for centuries.

DON'T WAIT

Take Advantage of a Gettysburg Citizen's Experience.

When the back begins to ache, Don't wait until backache becomes chronic; Till kidney troubles develop; Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Profit by a Gettysburg citizen's experience.

Harry J. Tawney, 9 Steinwehr Ave., Gettysburg, says: "My back ached almost constantly and at times I could hardly get around. The kidney secretions gave me much annoyance by their irregularity in passage and I was lame and stiff. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at the People's Drug Store and they positively and permanently cured me. I have been in good health ever since. I know of a number of other people who have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and in each case benefit has been had."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Tawney had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

is cheap; and Devoe is not the only good paint; it is one of a dozen; and, very likely, the only one in your town—there are hundreds of middling and bad.

You can see what chance there is of another good one there: perhaps one in ten at the most.

Bad paint is dearest; middling is dear; coats 2 or 3 times as much as the best.

No matter about the cost a gallon; that isn't it: the cost a square foot: the cost a job; better yet, the cost a year.

There's a whole education in paint in this advertisement.

The Renewal a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may avert much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.
